HI GANG!

Wow! what an issue! Packed to the brim with spooky Hallowe'en fun! It'll certainly send a shiver up your spine! Are you off to any Hallowe'en parties? If so, you'll have to sort out a scary costume. This week's issue is full of people dressing up! And to complete your outfit there's a gruesome cut-out mask on page 11! Our trip around the world begins today! On page 12 there's a pull-out map for you to stick on your wall. It shows all the places that we're going to visit over the next few weeks - so join us on our world tour!

GANG PROJECT

Here are two ways of having a really traditional Hallowe'en:

● Apple bobbing. Get together a group of friends, several apples and a tub of water. See who's best at fishing the apples out of the water with their hands tied behind their back.

● Pumpkins. Buy a pumpkin from your local green-grocer. Hollow it out and carve a gruesome face out of the side of it. Place a candle inside the pumpkin.

NEXT WEEK:
Meet evil Doctor Jackal!

This is 'rally' exciting!

Colouring Chaos!

Remember the Crazy Captions Competition in issue 76? Well we had sacks full of entries! They were all very funny, so it was pretty difficult to pick a winner!

But finally we decided that we really liked Alexander Alcock's caption. Well done Alexander! Thank you to everyone who sent in entries.

MONSTER MIX-UP!

Hallowe'en's a great time for dressing up! But sometimes it's hard to tell who's under that costume!

It was Hallowe'en night and six gruesome-looking creatures were making their way to the Gang Caboose. Stealthily they crept around the windows and peered inside. The girls all had their best frocks on and Woolma, Dotty and Bernice were putting last-minute touches to the decorations whilst Lolly, Portia and Flora laid the table with bowls of coloured jelly, mouth-watering ice cream and fancy cakes.

"That food looks good!" An evil-looking werewolf snarled, licking his lips.

"Yeah, let's join the party!" The hideous dracula standing next to him agreed.

"But first, let's give them a little fright!" His neighbour, a monster with a fiendish face said, grinning wickedly at his ghastly companions.

"Waaaaaaah! Waaaaaaah! Waaaaah!" They all shrieked together.

"W-what's that?" Portia gasped, dropping her cake in fright.

"Probably an owl or something," Bernice stammered nervously.

"Waaaaaaah! Waaaaaaah!" The eerie screaming was louder now.

"L-looook!" Bernice pointed a quivering finger at the hideous faces leering through the window, "M-m-monsters!"

"Woooooooooooooh! We're coming to get yooouu!" The monsters screeched.

"H-e-l-p!" The girls shrieked in terror as they bolted to the table and huddled under it.

The faces disappeared from the window and footsteps made their way to the door. The girls watched in horror as the door was thrust open and the dreadful monsters stamped in.

"Great how the guys are never around when you need them! Dotty hissed through clenched teeth. Poor Portia was wide-eyed with terror and Woolma looked about to faint.

"Fooled ya!" A familiar voice laughed.

"Bingo!" The girls peered out cautiously – Bingo had taken off his werewolf mask and was grinning at them. So were the rest of the boys, each with a devilish mask in their hand!

"What a horrible trick to play!" Woolma said crossly, "I've messed up my hair now – and look how creased my dress is!"

"Aw, come on, it was just a bit of fun!" Zipper grinned.

"Fun!" Bernice snorted. "You frightened the life out of us, I don't call that fun. I call it mean and nasty!"

"The trouble with you girls is you haven't got a sense of humour!" Rocco told them.

"And the trouble with you guys is you've got no sense!" Flora snapped.

"Look, we're sorry if we upset you," Montgomery said, "We only did it for a joke."

"Yeah, let's not fall out, we're supposed to be having a party!" Dotty reminded everyone.

An hour later, the party was in full swing and everyone was having a great time.

"Gosh, I'm thirsty!" Zipper gasped.

"Where's the cola?"

"Oh dear, we forgot to bring it!" Rudyard confessed.

"Trust you lot, too busy playing your stupid pranks I suppose!" Woolma snorted, she was still mad about her new dress getting creased when she was hiding under the table. "Well, you can jolly well go and get it!"

"Hurry up back – and don't drink it all on the way!" Everyone shouted as Bingo, Rocco and Zipper left to get the cola.

As they went out the front door two spooky figures sneaked up to the back of the caboose. It was Catchum and Leland, covered in a white sheet each to make them look like ghosts.

"Woooooooooooooh! Woooooooooooooh!" The troublesome pair howled, leering through the window.

"Those guys must be thick if they think they're going to fool us again!" Bernice scoffed.

"Wait a minute, I've got an idea . . ." Dotty said. "Eeeeeeeeeeeeeeeek!" Catchum screeched, he was really enjoying himself.

"Aaaaaaaargh! Aaaaaargh!" The Gang screamed, dashing under the table again.

"Told ya we'd scare 'em!" Catchum chortled. "Come on Leland, we'll scare 'em off then we'll have a party!"

So the crafty croc and his slimy pal ran around to the front door of the caboose. "Knock! Knock! Knock!" they hammered on the door.

"Help!" The gang screamed inside.

"Woooooooooh!" Catchum and Leland thrust the door open. "Woooooooo . . . Ker-splash! Sputter! Aaaaaaaargh!" They both screamed as a bucketful of cold water splashed all over them, drenching them from head to toe.

"Hard luck, guys, that'll teach you to try and trick us again!" Woolma and the others laughed.

"Cough! Splutter! Uuuurgh!" The two spookes gasped.

"Hey, what's going on?" Bingo asked as he, Rocco and Zipper came in carrying the cola.

"B-Bingo!" Dotty stuttered. "Then who's the ghosts?" She pointed to the two writhing forms on the floor, still swathed in a wet sheet.

"We'll soon find out," Rocco and Bingo said, quickly seizing the sheets and pulling them off, revealing a dripping wet crocodile and lizard.

"Catchum! Leland!" Everyone laughed "Ha! Ha! What a couple of drips!"

MAKE A MASK!

A large, green, textured monster mask is the central focus. It has large, red, circular eyes with black pupils, thick black eyebrows, a small black nose, and a wide, jagged yellow mouth showing sharp teeth. The mask is outlined with a dashed line, indicating it's a cutout. Small red and yellow circular fasteners are placed at the top, sides, and bottom of the mask. To the left, a cartoon witch with white hair, a blue bow, and a black hat is saluting. To the right, there's a jack-o'-lantern with triangular eyes and a mushroom. Bats are flying in the background. The entire scene is framed by a blue border. The text 'LAMPITT &amp; ENGLAND.' is at the bottom right, and the page number '11' is at the bottom right corner.
